Our Country and Our Queen.

In other lands the bright sonbeam With richer glow is known, But none, however fair they reem, Are fairer than our own, And none a monarch can possess As on our throng is seen : Still then we'll pray to Heagen to bless

In song let children hall ber name, For she our love hath won, By deeds of more endoring fame Than manhood's might hath done, And long as language can express, What's in the heart unseen, Wo'll pray to Heaven above, to bless Our Country and our Queen.

Our Country and ode Queen.

From lordly tower, and princely hall, And pearant's lowly home. Where'er her goulle sway doth fall, Her heartfult praires come; Our mountain their delight express, Our cliffs and ralleys green And still we pray to Heaven to bless Our Country and our Queen.

Though great her glory and renown, Theme of her peoples' prayers, May she yet win a nobler Crown Than that on earth she wears; And long may future times confess The virtues we have seen ; But Heaven, in thy great love, still bless

(From the Innfed Herald (Darby ergib) Ady. 10.) It is quite true that many millions of people in England erro their bread by cotton; and that cotton we rouse have. But it is equally true and apparent that the Southern States of America lare not the only fields from which cotton dan bo got. And that since the employment of several millions of people involves the investment in the cofton spinning, trade of tal will not allow itself to perish, and will find cotton elsewhere if America ceases to furnish it. If the bakers in London were to strike and shut up, we do not and gine that, therefore, Lundon would be long without bread. Nor need the Southern States imagine that they hold the keys of all the cotton reserves in the world. Provincial Exhibition at Lordon.

LETTER NO. 2.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 25th, 1861. 'To-day we had more time to examine the Exhibition Grounds and the various animals, articles, &c., on view. As a Provincial Agricultural Show, it must be pronounced a decided success. In cattle there is great compelition-perhaps the greatest ever witnessed in the Province. The Durhams, Devons, Galloways and Herefords are largely represented. Mr. Stone, of Guelph shows several fine speelmons of Herefords; while two gentlemen alone, in the neighborhood of London have entered about seventy head of Dovope: then with a large number of competitors from various sections of the country, who have entered from one to or eix and ten head, will serve to give some ealight idea of the number of cattle upon at the ground. In horses the display is not so great; but the specimens appear good. In cerriage . horses we find the largest number of entries; some teams are finely niatched but others are widely spart. One gentleman, Mr. Bastedo of Hamilton, sold one span for $700.
